Transition and Training Project

Supporting adults and young people to develop the skills and gain the experience needed for a successful transition to employment or further education

About us & what we offer

Work experience

Skills for work and life

Caberfeidh Horizons:

Caberfeidh Horizons was set up in 2004 to provide work experience and activities in the community, for adults and young people with a learning disability, mental health and/or addiction problem and the long term unemployed.

Our new Transition and Training Project works with adults and young people by:

- 1) Helping young people overcome barriers to their transition from school to work, education or training.
- 2) Providing training and/or social skills development to people with additional support needs and the long term unemployed.

We have a Transition and Employability Officer who offers one to one input and supported work placements for 15-24 year olds to help them progress to the stage of successfully applying for work or a college place.

Our Training Officer offers training, work experience and social skills development to young people and adults with additional support needs.

Working one to one or with groups, we assist our trainees to overcome the barriers that are holding them back from where they want to be, whether they are aiming for a college place, a job or a training placement.

In partnership with local employers and charities, we can offer work experience through long and short work placements and volunteering. We support employers and trainees during the work experience process to ensure that it is a positive experience for everyone involved.

A very useful experience.

Skills for
Work and Life

Our first meeting with trainees will identify some background information including any additional support needs, current skills level and aims and objectives. From there we will develop an individual action plan with short and long term objectives.

We can also assist trainees in identifying and gaining access to awards and courses in partnership with other providers.
